I don't think I forward this off to Jim Maughan, but can you talk to this tomorrow under #6 in the discussion topics?

Thank you,
Wendy

Wendy,

An observation that you could possibly pass along to DFA:

There were approximately 35 planning study and 15 construction awards that had no funding information.

I have highlighted the obvious ones in Red.

Our take-away about the cost of Arsenic is:

$2.3M for Planning at 6 systems; and
$19.8M for Construction at 5 systems

(I suspect that this is less than 1/10th the actual cost to California's drinking water infrastructure development program.)

We have been asking for the funding information, for what feels like a very long time. We have modified the tracking form to make it clearer about what we are looking for. I had offered to sit with someone at DFA and knock this thing out, and the offer still stands. But, it will be too late for this round of updates for our senior management.

Thank you for compiling the responses, my frustration is with the responders.

-Luis

Subject: Arsenic List

Hi Luis:

Here is the current Arsenic list per your request. There are a few Districts/LPAs that didn't respond, but we will be following up with them in the next week.

Thank you,
